I. Definitions

1. "Document" or "documents" means writings and recordings of any type or description, whether originals or copies (e.g., carbon, handwritten, typewritten, microfilm, photostatic, and xerographic copies), regardless of where located, that are in your possession, custody, or control. For purposes of this definition:

a. "writings and recordings" are materials upon which information or data has been recorded or is retained in any form, however produced, e.g., handwritten, typed, printed, digitally recorded, taped, computerized, encoded or otherwise produced, reproduced or copied.

b. each copy of a writing or recording that differs in any way from the original, e.g., by virtue of an addition, deletion, alteration, notation or inscription, is a separate document.

c. documents include, but are not limited to, correspondence, memoranda, communications, books, reports, records, slips, self-stick notes, telephone and other logs, rolodexes or other telephone books, telephone message notations, notes and/or memoranda of telephone conversations, notebooks, calendars, diaries, working papers, contracts, agreements, vouchers, invoices, billings, receipts, cancelled checks, check stubs, bank drafts, bank records, data sheets, microfilm, microfiche, tape recordings, information stored in computer hard drive, or on computer disk or tape, or any other electronic or mechanical recording or transcript, and any other instrument or device which contains any information or from which any information can be derived or retrieved. (When documents are stored in computer hard drive, or on computer tapes or disks, the documents to be produced shall include all program instructions and other materials necessary for their use or retrieval).

2. The term "communication" or "communications" means any transmission or exchange of information between two or more persons, orally or in writing, and includes, without limitation, any conversation, contact or discussion, whether face-to-face or by means of telephone, telegraph, telex, electronic or other media, whether by chance or design.

3. The term "person" or "persons" includes any individual, group of individuals, sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, company, unincorporated business association, or other entity.

4. The terms "and" and "or" shall be construed either conjunctively or disjunctively as necessary to bring within the scope of the request any document which might otherwise be construed to be outside its scope.

5. The original of all documents that are responsive in whole or in part to any paragraph in Part II of this subpoena attachment are to be produced to the grand jury.

6. For any document withheld under a claim of privilege, provide a statement setting forth:

- a. the name and title of the author(s) of the document;
- b. the name and title of the person(s) to whom the documents is addressed;
- c. the names and titles of all persons to whom copies of the document, or any part thereof, were sent or shown;
- d. the date of the document;
- e. a brief description of the subject matter of the document;
- f. the nature of the claimed privilege;
- g. all facts which you claim demonstrate that the privilege has not been waived; and
- h. the paragraph(s) or subparagraph(s) of this subpoena attachment to which the document is responsive.

II. Items To Be Produced

All documents, writings and recordings related to the protest activities conducted in San Francisco, California, on July 8, 2005, between the hours of 6:30 p.m. and 11:59 p.m., including but not limited to:

1. photographs;

2. developed and undeveloped film and film negatives and positives;
3. video tape recordings;
4. audio tapes;
5. digital media containing images of the said protest activities;
6. records reflecting the software used to process, manipulate or store the electronic images, video and/or audio data;
7. each camera, video recorder, audio recording device or other hardware or equipment used to record any part of the above described events of July 8, 2005.
